INFORMATION FOR READERS.

This Library is classified according to the Dewey system of Decimal Classification, an outline of which is shown on the next page.

These general classes admit of almost indefinite subdivision, to meet all the requirements of a library.

Reference books are given their class numbers, followed by the letter R. Books marked in this way are not to be taken from the library.

The letter j preceeding the book number indicates a book for young readers.

The letter P following the class number indicates a pamphlet.

In looking up special subjects, if you do not find what you are in search of in this catalogue, consult the card catalogue at the library, in which books will be found under author, title and subject, and arranged in alphabetical order.

The Card Catalogue is always up to date, as fresh accessions can be added at any time without disturbing the alphabetical arrangement.

The number of volumes in the library, Sept. 1, 1893, was 2,000.
